

THE DAILY NEWS.

The Official Organ of the City.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1876.

JOHN D. CAMERON, Editor.

JORDAN STONE, Associate Editor.

THE DAILY NEWS is the Only Paper in the City of Raleigh That Takes the Telegraphic Reports.

OUR TERMS:

ADVERTISING RATES.—Per square (ten lines, Nonpareil) first insertion $1.00; each subsequent insertion 50 cents. Contracts for advertisements of any space or time can be made at the counting-room of the News Office.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.—No letter can be published in these columns which is not authenticated by the name of its author. This we require, not for publication, but as a guarantee of the good faith of correspondents. Persons who violate this rule will have their communications consigned to the waste-basket.

THE WEEKLY NEWS is the cheapest paper published in North Carolina. It is only one dollar per year, postage paid, contains 32 columns of plain printed news from every section of the country, and important advertisements. Always Cash.

THE ALABAMA CONSTITUTION.

The Constitution adopted by the late Alabama Convention is now before the people for ratification. In strong contrast to the conduct of the Republicans in this State, the leaders of that party in the city and county of Mobile are urging the adoption of the new constitution, in which they will be joined by the party in the rest of the State. They have issued an address, which we will hereafter transfer to our columns, as an example or warning to our home Republicans. The cases are precisely parallel. The address, after expressing the fears at first entertained, that the Convention would be partisan, and its results oppressive, says "The Convention has assembled, completed its work, and submitted the result of its labors."

"In plain language we feel bound to admit that we have been agreeably disappointed. In our opinion, it is not only not partisan, but is one of the most fair and honest organic laws for the people of Alabama that could have been formed."

"The mere fact that a majority of the Convention were democrats is no reason for voting against it, &c."

Those who will trouble themselves to read the clear and able exposition of the work of the Convention as set forth in the address of the delegates, from Chatham, Messrs. Manning and Stroud, and published in yesterday morning's News, will see how exactly parallel the cases of the two Conventions are. They will see for themselves the valuable work done by the Convention, and how fair and impartial it is, and they will draw a contrast between the action of the Alabama Republicans and those of North Carolina, who, by their silly protest, endeavor to inflame the hostility of the people of the State against amendments so full of wisdom and usefulness.

CONGRESS.

Only three weeks now to the meeting of Congress, and the eyes of the whole country are fixed upon a body, where for the first time since 1861 the Democrats have a controlling voice in one of its branches. Checked as they will be by a Republican Senate, and confronted by Executive hostility, the House is incompetent to carry through by itself those measures of relief and reform so indispensable for the peace and prosperity of the country. Nevertheless they have the power to educate the country up to their ideas, and to prepare the way to the triumph of the Democratic Presidential candidate. They have the power of investigation, and they will use it unsparringly, to show how utterly the administration has forfeited the respect and confidence of the people, and how much the policy of the Republican party, reflecting the wishes and principles of the administration, have brought so much of disgrace and disaster to the country.

The beginning of the session will be signalized by an intensity of interest in the election of Speaker scarcely before felt, because it will be a test of sectional strength, a trial of forces between the East and the West, a contrast of the principles upon which the Presidential race is to be run. It is certain that no try in parliamentary experiences will be run. It must be some one who has won his spurs by many a hard fought battle on the floors of Congress. Among the most prominent, perhaps the most so, will be Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania. He is now serving his seventh term in Congress, and has been distinguished for courteous manners, of imperturbable good temper, of thorough parliamentary knowledge, and on National questions, of broad and liberal views. He is the author of the Pennsylvania inflation plank, which the National Republican characterizes as a master piece of financial ingenuity. On the tariff question, he takes the old fashioned Pennsylvania view of protection and high duties and imports, and this brings him in conflict with the West and South.

Those sections will most probably lean towards Mr. Kerr, of Indiana. Like Mr. Randall, he has had a long Congressional experience, and is quite the equal of that gentleman as a parliamentarian. He will most probably have the support of the West and the South, who are drawn together by the attraction of interests in common.

Other candidates will have their supporters, and will possess no mean strength. Fernando Wood, the oldest and probably the most experienced of them all, though that experience was not altogether gained in Congress. "Sunset" Cox is another name, ripe in experience, brilliant in talent, and exceedingly popular in manners.

Among these four will the suffrages be divided. A Southern candidate is not to be thought of, the Southern members modestly, but steadily working their way to public confidence, and biding the time when Southern talent will again be recognized as the leading power of the National Congress.

AN UNFORTUNATE PERVERSION.

The Wilmington Journal transfers to its columns, inadvertently we think, the account given by a correspondent of the way in which Stonewall Jackson received his sobriquet. This statement deprives General Jackson of the glory which has attached to him, and makes him stand as a monument of selfishness, rather than the emblem of heroic fortitude. This correspondent says that General Bee said to him in the heat of contest "men, we have got to fight this battle alone. There stands Jackson like a stone wall, and will not help us. Let every man that is a man follow me!" thus intimating that Jackson was indifferent to the issue of the battle, and intent only upon his own glory, or his own safety.

Contemporaneous accounts represent the occurrence in altogether a different point of view. Bee's words were addressed to his men to encourage them and excite their emulation. His own men were staggering under the terrible blows inflicted upon them. He saw Jackson and his men, exposed to the same terrific storm, standing firm and immovable, and he appealed to his faltering men, "See, there stands Jackson like a stone wall," stand like them and the victory is ours. It was the heroic attitude of Jackson and his men that gave these words, simple in themselves, so much significance; a significance without meaning if they had been used as words of reproach to Jackson, which they are in the version of the correspondence. If in the latter sense, the army and the world would have not taken them up so enthusiastically, and affixed the immortal sobriquet by which Jackson is best known.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY FOR 1876.

We have not been so deeply impressed by the apparent successes in the late elections as to abandon the hope, and in some degree the belief that the Democrats will succeed with proper judgment in the selection of their candidate, and proper exertion in his behalf, in overthrowing the Republican party. That party now flushed with its recent successes, seem to think that they have regained public confidence, retrieved all their losses, and placed in a position again to demand popular endorsement; when in truth, the issues upon which these local campaigns were fought, were only semi-national, in some States altogether local in their character.

When the campaign of 1876 does begin in earnest, we think that the Republicans will discover that their victory of this year was a barren one. In fact they have at present only recovered some States they lost last year, and hold some of them by so slight a tenure that they may well tremble for the safety of their prizes. How can they be assured of Ohio, which in a vote of six hundred thousand is held by the insignificant majority of less than five thousand—a majority which was most probably secured by importation of voters, a system which cannot work in a general election? What assurance have they of the stability of Massachusetts which gives the meagre majority of six or seven thousand instead of the magnificent majorities of seventy or eighty thousand of three or four years ago, and their vote this year, though in the majority, less than their minority vote when Gaston, the Democratic candidate, was elected? What claim have they on New Jersey, heretofore "true blue" Democratic, which switched off this year on a local sectional issue, altogether outside of the pale of politics, and which is sure to come back again to the Democratic track when the rallying cry of party is sounded? And we presume the same review, unpropitious to the fortunes of the Republicans, might be taken of several other States. But taking the case as it now presents itself, the Democrats are still in the ascendancy in the electoral college. The New York Herald foots up 188 Democratic electors and 181 Republican. That journal includes New Jersey, most certainly Democratic, and North Carolina, most probably so. The Baltimore Gazette is a little more sanguine, claiming these States, giving the Democrats 194, and the Republicans 174, adding in Colorado, not yet a State, and which the Herald does not include.

So that it appears that the Democrats are really stronger, and when the real issues of the campaign are presented—not the financial question alone—the prospects of success are bright enough to encourage the hope that next winter the Executive and the Legislative departments of the Government may once more be in accord.

A JUST TRIBUTE TO A GREAT LEADER.

In the course of Dr. Hodge's fine oration at the unveiling of the Jackson statue, after a fine passage, in which he referred to the Olympic Games, he continued, in the following noble tribute to one of the greatest Captains of his age:

"Not only were there honors paid at these celebrated games to the victors, but the poet and the historian, but popular enthusiasm was still more aroused when the patriot soldier appeared in the stadium."

The joy and admiration and applause of the people on one occasion constrained even Themistocles to confess that such homage had made that noble day of his life.

And now on every side I see those who have won enduring fame on the fields of war; many of them scarred with honorable wounds—these best badges of membership in the world's true Legion of Honor. Two of the most illustrious of the chieftains of the war have been called up to receive higher rewards than earth can bestow, but another still remains.

We greet him here today with gratitude and pride. Ten thousand men around me now rejoice that they look once more upon the manly face and form of General Joseph E. Johnston.

Jasper Thompson, of Texas, who had been a captive among the Comanches for thirteen years, finding himself a few days since left in camp with but one guard, and the Indian threat of execution, he had forgotten the English language and was compelled to communicate with his friends, whom he fortunately reached, by signs.

Some of the Delaware farmers complain that they have tried in vain to make peach brandy this year, the saccharine material being absent from the fruit.

"For the Blood is the Life."

See Deuteronomy, xlii: 25. The blood being the source from which the system is built up, and from which we derive our mental as well as physical capabilities, how important that it should be kept pure! It contains life, fostering poisons, all organic functions become enfeebled, settling upon important organs, as the liver, lungs, and kidneys, the effect is most disastrous. Hence it becomes all to keep their blood in a perfectly healthy condition, and more especially does this apply to the nervous system. The blood is at any other. No matter what the exciting cause may be, the real cause of a large proportion of all diseases is bad blood. Now, Dr. Pierce does not wish to place his name in the catalogue of quack patent nostrums, by recommending it to cure every disease, but he does so recommend it; on the contrary, there are hundreds of diseases that he acknowledges it will not cure; but what he does claim is this, that there is but one form of blood disease that it will not cure, and that disease is cancer. He does not recommend his Discovery for that disease, yet he knows it to be the most searching blood cleanser yet discovered, and that it will free the blood and system of all other blood poisons, be they animal, vegetable, or mineral. The Golden Medical Discovery is incorporated by him in the most potent form of Quinine, as all forms of Blisters, Pimples, and Eruptions; also all Glandular swellings, and the worst form of Scrofulous and Ulcerated Sores of the Neck, Legs, or other parts, and all Scrofulous Diseases of the Bones, as White Swellings, Fever Sores, Hip Joint and Spinal Diseases—all of which belong to scrofulous diseases.

Confirmed—Tip Joint Disease Cured.

Dear Sir—My wife first became lame nine years ago. Swellings would appear and disappear on her hip, and her whole system rotten with disease. In 1871, a swelling broke on her hip, discharging large quantities, and since that time there are several openings. Have had five doctors, at an expense of $125, who say nothing will do any good but a surgical operation.

July 16, 1876, he writes this: My wife has certainly received great benefit from the use of your Discovery, for she was not able to get off the bed and was not expected to live a week when she commenced using it, a year ago. She has been rotten with her work for over six months. Has used twenty bottles, and still using it. Her recovery is considered as a miracle, and we attribute it to the use of your valuable medicine. I can cheerfully recommend it as a blood-purifier and strength-resistor.

J. M. ROBINSON.

Golden Medical Discovery is sold by Druggists.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Philadelphia Press says the "household" of that city by a prominent part in politics now as the "log cabin" did once of yore.

Chief Justice Waite is a prominent candidate for president and is urged by a strong organization on which Grant is said to look with favor.

The good people of Petersburg are still feeling proud over the glorious Conservative victory obtained in that city on the second inst.

An exchange says that Governor Thayer, of New York, flashed like a meteor across the political sky but does not appear as luminous as he did before. The election, and his chances for the nomination, which depended solely on his ability to carry New York by an overwhelming vote, have divided materially.

Some of the Conservatives of Petersburg, Va., propose celebrating the anniversary of that city by a public demonstration. The Index-Appel advises against it, as it costs money, and besides the people have been sufficiently excited for the past few weeks, and the angry feelings that have been engendered should be allowed to subside.

The Labor-Gazette-Republican is of the opinion that the remedies for present calamities and pending insolvency are the following:

1. An unconditional repeal of that feature of the currency act of 1874 which provided for the gold payment of greenbacks, national bank notes, bank deposits, &c., in 1879.

2. An unconditional repeal of that portion of the currency act of 1874 providing for the retirement of greenbacks as additional bank notes shall be issued.

3. An enactment of a law providing for an immediate issue of national bonds bearing interest at the rate of 3.50 per cent. per annum, payable at par in greenbacks, and the bonds to be sold at auction, at the option of the holder.

A Charleston (S. C.) dispatch of the 5th inst., says: "Senator Gordon, of Georgia, who is visiting in this city, was interviewed by a News and Courier reporter to-day upon the result of Tuesday's election. He attributes the Democratic reverses to the fact that the currency issues diverted public attention from the corruption and maladministration of the Republican party, especially in its Southern policy. He said the Republicans would be glad to fight the battle of '76 upon new issues, and it does not matter much with them what the issue is; whether they be the currency, the acquisition of Cuba, or a war with the people; anything rather than their own record. The national Democracy will make serious mistakes if they permit any of these new issues to be brought into the Presidential canvass next year. He said he was satisfied, however, that after the issue of Tuesday the national Democracy would no longer be the currency question either in regard to principle, or that the wings of the Democratic party on the extreme right, and the Liberal Republicans, would unite in 76 in favor of the Constitution, local government, and honest economical administration."

The New York Herald of last week has the following plain talk concerning the result in Mississippi:

"Contrary to various fears, hopes and expectations, election day appears to have been as quiet in Mississippi as any other, even a Quaker. The Democrats have carried the State, and this puts an end to the scandalous misrule of Governor Ames, which was as hateful to the honest Republicans of the State as it was to the Democrats. The day's result is a triumph for the Union, for the Constitution, for the honest government, and for the people of the South. The Federal government should keep its hands off. The responsibility for the present misrule will rest upon the Legislature and the Governor, and the country will watch their conduct with some curiosity and lively hope that they will move faster. It is not likely, however, that the new Legislature will improve and remove Governor Ames, which will be disappointment to him, as he hoped that it would be of the same old man to the United States Senate."

A PEACE OFFERING.—In commenting upon the recent grand ovation to the military deed, in unveiling the Jackson statue at Richmond, the North can not only look calmly on while Virginia and the South eulogize the heroes who grew great in our discords, but we can be proud in paying the tribute of our admiration to the rugged virtues, the obstinate sincerity, the steady faith, the courageous self-denial which are perpetuated in the monumental bronze unveiled at Richmond yesterday. His deeds and his sacrifices are in a special sense the heritage of the men with whom and for whom he fought, but in a larger sense he can inspire a man of sincerity, constancy and fidelity to his honest, though mistaken, convictions, is the world's, and will be remembered when the cause he fought for is forgotten.

Desperately popular. We mean Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, for it never fails. Physicians recommend it.

Yesterday's Mail.

Brought three more certificates in favor of "Annapolis, India," the great East India remedy for consumption, bronchitis and asthma.

Send me one dozen Ointment and one of Canalis India. When Mr. W. H. Bull brought his wife to me for examination, I found her in the helpless state of Tuberculous Consumption. Then it was I concluded to make a fair trial of Indian Ointment and now she is a general demand for these remedies. The Ointment exceeds everything of its kind I ever saw or tried.

Fraternally yours,

China Grove, Rowan, N. C.

N. B. This remedy speaks for itself. One bottle will satisfy the most skeptical. Ask your druggist to get it. $2.50 per bottle or three bottles for $7.50. Pills and Ointment $1.25 each.

As these are imported remedies we do not commission them, but will make exchange everywhere.
